“Jesus Christ is Everything!”

World-renowned motorcycle stunt rider, Robert “Evel” Knievel, after sharing his story of redemption through faith during his interview with Dr. Robert H. Schuller, is baptized on Sunday, April 1, 2007.

That still, quiet voice...

By Pastor Robert A. Schuller

“Jesus Christ is everything! I know that now. If I had known that years and years ago, I would have been three times the man I thought I was,” said the legendary daredevil, Evel Knievel, after he finished his astonishing testimony in the Crystal Cathedral on Palm Sunday, April 1, 2007. He had been baptized by my father. His face was wet with tears. My face was wet with tears. And as I looked out into the faces of the nearly 3,000 people seated in the Crystal Cathedral that special morning, I could see most of them wiping the tears from their eyes.

What is that “little voice” saying to you today?

According to the morning’s Order of Worship, it was now my turn to

When asked where he was when he first heard of the incident, Gov. Kaine replied, “It seemed surreal to be on the

The Day I Met the Governor

By Christopher Polanco, Crystal Cathedral Academy Student

The day I met the Governor is a day that I will never forget.

I was with Mrs. Lashier's fourth grade class on a field trip to Sacramento. At the end of the day, my class went to our state capitol. The tour guide showed us the state seal and then took us inside the building and down to the basement. When we got to the basement, I saw an officer with a guard dog. He told us to stay behind the ropes because the Governor was coming.

Suddenly, a door flew open and I saw six large body guards come out of the room. Behind the bodyguards walked Governor Schwarzenegger. The Governor walked toward me and lifted up my hands in the air like I was a champion. I felt happy and proud. His bodyguard took a picture of that moment, and this is a moment I will always remember.

When Governor Schwarzenegger heard that Crystal Cathedral Academy students were in the Capitol building, he made a point to meet them and ask them about their trip to Sacramento.

Here am I... use me!

By Robert H. Schuller, Founding Pastor

Many years ago traveling by airplane, a businessman gave me his card asking, "What business are you in?" I answered, "Oh, I'm in a global company and you will find us at work all around the world." Impressed, he said, "Really, is it Shell Oil?" He went on to name other international companies and I answered, "No, I am a member of the clergy with the Church of Jesus Christ and we have representatives in countries around the globe."

Yes, hundreds of years before our high-tech culture, e-mail, television, Internet. Yes, even before telephones and airplanes, the church already was in the global business of building the kingdom of Jesus Christ.

Via global television, we became missionaries to the world.

Even my childhood farm had was pretty much isolated from the outside world, yet at our country church we heard courageous stories of missionaries: David Livingstone, attacked by a lion in Africa; Dr. Ida Scudder, the first doctor to give medical help to women in India; and my Uncle Henry, a missionary to China.

So, at the very beginning of the drive-in church in 1955, our church budget included the support of a missionary in Japan, and one in South Africa. In the 1970s, we went on to build a medical clinic in Chiapas, Mexico, and a school in a remote mountain village in Korea, and purchase a helicopter for the jungles of New Guinea.

Via global television, we became missionaries to the world with all its contradicting philosophies, competing faiths, hostile religions, conflicting cultures, and warring politics. For 37 years, messages of our positive Christian faith were delivered to millions of television viewers in dozens of countries.

What a calling we have to share universally the Gospel of Jesus Christ – Faith, Hope, and Love.

May our prayer always be, "God, use me to show Your caring love to the world. 'Here am I...use me.'"

The "3rd Age" Idea: Relationship Time

By Dr. Jim Kok, Pastor of Care Ministries

Life can now be appropriately divided into thirds. The first third is roughly starts with infancy and extends to about age 30. It is preparation time, or getting started. Birth, education, spiritual guidance, growing physically stronger, and learning about being a good person happens here. Then, around age 30, we are usually well into a time of productivity. Jobs, colleagues, friends, and families are the clearest example of this. These are usually, by age thirty, solidly underway yielding measurable, enjoyable companionship, offspring, income, and other rewards. Hard work often characterizes this part of life.

There are numerous exceptions to the rule but, for most, the years from age 30 to 60 are high energy, hardworking decades of building and refining important products and resources.

Then there is the 3rd Age. It can be a brand new and refreshing experience. Often it begins with formal retirement. In the past, retirement offered only a few years of relief after a career of tedious employment. It was not, as now, a completely new decades-long opportunity for something different.

Over the past twenty years, a major shift has begun. We now see octogenarians, and even older, everywhere we look. Even living to age 100 is not so rare anymore. So now, life is no longer just two halves: preparation and production. A fresh new third has opened to us.

For many, the third quarter offers options rarely as plentiful earlier in life. Some slide into new occupations that fit their passions. Others finally have the opportunity to see the world or enjoy travel. Many choose volunteer work helping, assisting, pitch-

LOGOS BIBLE STUDY

"The Bible: Plain and Simple" Spring Quarter

By Anita Sherbanee, Elder

We will begin our Spring Quarter of The Bible Plain and Simple by continuing our study of the New Testament Book of Mark. Mark is the shortest and probably oldest of the four Gospels, but the story it tells is powerful. When we study the book of Mark, we are provided with answers to some important questions about Jesus, such as how did Jesus fulfill the prophecies made in the Old Testament? How is Jesus the Son of God, and how will he be seen in the future as the Son of Man? How and why did Jesus die, and how will he return? And, how are the new people of God to live?

Bill Creasy

On Monday nights from 7 to 9 PM in the Freed Theater, almost 300 people attend this truly ecumenical Bible study taught by teacher extraordinaire, Dr. Bill Creasy. Dr. Creasy's lively and animated style of teaching brings the Bible to life like never before. If you have never studied the Bible, or want to strengthen your present understanding of Scripture, this is the class for you. It is lecture style, and there is no homework! Just bring your Bible, and come and listen!

The Bible Plain and Simple is a systematic, verse-by-verse, expository study of the entire Bible, Genesis through Revelation. It consists of a weekly two-hour lecture by Dr. Creasy; written introductions, notes, outlines and bibliographies for each book of the Bible; color satellite maps, timelines and photographs; and a high-quality leatherette binder. His deep knowledge of the ancient literature, languages, history, and culture of the Bible, his love for the Scriptures, his dynamic teaching style, and his remarkable sense of humor bring the Bible to life as never before.

You can begin this series of classes at any time. Past lectures are also available on MP3 discs, and

COMMUNITY MISSIONS

Seeds of Hope Through ESL

By Gudelia Ramirez, Community Missions

May is a special month for students - graduations are everywhere, and dreams are closer and more real for graduates. It is the time to face exciting decisions about careers and the future. On the 50th anniversary of the Crystal Cathedral, Dr. Schuller gave the congregation a commemorative coin that said, "Don't Throw Away Tomorrow! Live God's Dream for Your Life!" WOW! What a powerful message for students, and especially graduates taking their next big steps in life.

For English as a Second Language (ESL) students, Dr. Schuller's words are meaningful, as well. They are empowering, opening them up to see better opportunities ahead, and encouraging them to remain firmly determined to continue their study of the English language.

Thanks to Dr. Schuller and Pastor Robert Anthony Schuller, seeds of hope have been planted in us, which, in turn, are planted in others. Each ESL student represents for us the opportunity to extend the fields, planting more seeds out in the community, showing others how their "impossible" dreams can come true.

If you would like to help us plant seeds of hope in our community through the ESL program, then become a tutor, or refer to us anyone you know who desires to learn English. For information, call 714-971-4047.

Kendra Livingstone in People Magazine

Kendra Livingstone is a youthful example of "turning hurts into halos." After her young father died of cancer four years ago, Kendra turned toward helping other children who are going through heartbreaking experiences. People magazine learned of her beautiful spirit and asked her to tell her story. The April 1 issue carried the heartwarming account along with wonderful pictures of 14-year-old Kendra and friends.

Kendra was selected from 150 volunteers in seven states who work with an organization called "Kids Connected," started in 1992 by Jon Wagner-Holtz, then 11 years old, whose mother survived breast cancer. Teen members complete three days of training and work with professional therapists to lead support groups and help direct summer camp activities.

Kendra has been raised by her grandmother, Jeri Livingston. Jeri is the founder and facilitator of our "Survivors of Suicide" support group, which embraces and assists those who have a loved one who completed suicide. For seventeen years, since the death of her husband by suicide, Jeri has been opening her arms to those like herself. They gather on Tower of Hope, Floor 2, on the second and fourth Sundays at 1 PM.

Forgiveness is Kindness to Yourself

"Forgiving is a serious business because it is basically for our own spiritual, emotional, and physical benefit," says Menmonite author Peter J. Dyck. "We may or may not establish a new relationship with the person who injured us; that is not the heart of forgiveness. When we forgive, we finally stop hurting ourselves, hand the whole matter over to God, and believe what He says: "Vengeance is mine. I will repay, says the Lord."

Six Marks of Healthy Spirituality

This list was compiled by a group of church leaders in the U.S.A. and they welcome any suggestions and reactions. Here are their six marks of appropriate spirituality:

1. Knowing and feeling you are a part of the community known as The Body of Christ, and that you are both cared for and caring of others in that community.
2. Having a sense of awe, reverent wonder, and amazement about God.
3. Thankfulness that you are needed and have a reason for living, and you are directing your life according to that awareness.
4. Excitement about life continuing to hold wonderful new discoveries and opportunities.
5. A sense of peace, well-being, and gratification.
6. Consistent, intentional daily acts of compassion, sympathy, consideration, encouragement, and appreciation.

Do you regard this as an appropriate summary? Let me know what you think, and I'll pass it along (714-971-4031).

NEW HOPE

Another New Hope "Unsung Hero"

William Gaultiere, Ph.D., Director of New Hope

In 1982, Theresa Chisolm called New Hope to receive prayer and two different counselors told her that she should volunteer herself – so she did!

Theresa has volunteered with New Hope for over 20 years now! "I've been given a lot as a counselor," Theresa explained. She pointed to the encouragement she's received from the New Hope staff and counselors and to how, ten years ago, she started attending the continuing education training classes. "In the classes, I saw New Hope in a whole new perspective," Theresa said. "There were many things I learned about helping people and using New Hope as a ministry for the Lord. Now when I leave the phones, I feel a sense of peace. If there was only one person that I helped that day, I know it was worth it."

"You can't keep God's blessings unless you give them away," Theresa elaborated. Indeed, after becoming a New Hope Counselor she gave away her New Hope training in listening and empathy to her relationship with her mother! And she says that the Lord healed their relationship. They used to not get along, but after her New Hope training, Theresa opened her heart to her mother, started listening to her, and sought to minister to her. She found that her mother began to trust her like a friend and now they have wonderful relationship!

Theresa says she is honored to have the privilege of being a part of this special ministry in which God uses her to care for anonymous people who are hurting. She marveled, "The Lord uses me to say things to people and it ends up being just what they needed to hear! It's amazing to experience the Lord working through me to care for them." For example, one time she was talking with someone who was depressed and having suicidal thoughts. When she prayed for this man he said, "Where did you get that prayer? It lifted my spirits! It was amazing!" It was simply a prayer that came from Theresa's own heart.

Theresa became a Christian in 1979 in quite a unique way. She had been having problems with her boyfriend at the time and was feeling guilty because he was married. Hanging out at a bar, her Hispanic boyfriend on her mind, she looked in the phone book under "Hispanic" and, though she didn't realize it at the time, she ended up calling a "Hispanic Church." As a result, she was invited to a prayer meeting that met right across the street from the bar from where she was calling! There she met some people who prayed for her with the ministry of "laying on of hands." They prayed with such compassion and sincerity for

Theresa that tears streamed down her face. "They didn't even know me!" Theresa exclaimed. And – get this – Theresa didn't even know what they were saying! They were praying in Spanish! But God's love is deeper than words. Her heart was pierced with God's love and she prayed to receive Christ as her Lord and Savior.

Theresa's ministry extends far beyond New Hope. She has used her New Hope training to reach out to other people who are "down and out." One day she was driving her car and she said she felt a void as she thought about all the people who don't have a car to use for their own transportation. "I should be where the people are," she said to herself. So she started taking the bus! She has a car, but she rides the bus almost everywhere she goes and says it's the adventure of her life. She's met many homeless people. She talks to them as friends and invites them to a soup kitchen. Seven of these people now come to the soup kitchen every week. Theresa says, "My mom always told me, 'You can have great gifts, but if you don't share the gift of love, you don't have anything.'"

Get a taste of what New Hope is all about during a free "show and tell tour" on Floor 3 of the Tower of Hope on Tuesday May 1 at 6:15 PM. You'll see the New Hope operations up close and learn essential communication skills for everyday relationships. New Hope's Spring Basic Training Class runs May 8 to June 12, 2007. PRESCHOOL

"Share Your Gift" Program Initiated

By Marlene Kikta, Preschool Director

The Crystal Cathedral Preschool children had the opportunity in April to participate in our new "Share Your Gift" Program.

Sandy and Cindy Teske, drama teachers for the Academy shared their gift of teaching children about acting out different roles. They brought a great box of props to encourage the children to role-play. It was a delightful time for the children to learn how God blesses each of us with our own special gifts! Sandy and Cindy may have just inspired a future star or stars!

As always, the preschool staff welcomes parents interested in enrolling their children. The ACSI-accredited, five-star-rated preschool is open year round and features a "hands-on" developmental curriculum. The school is currently accepting registrations for the school year that begins in September. Call 714-971-4141.

ACADEMY & HIGH SCHOOL

Arts, Education & Encouragement

By Sheila Coleman, Director of Family Ministries

Arvella Schuller, in the fall of 1977, started a new school model: a private Christian school with excellent academics with the arts and Bible as part of the core curriculum for every student. In the nearly thirty years since, the Crystal Cathedral Academy expanded to include an exceptional middle school and outstanding high school.

The elementary, middle, and high schools have all received the highest accreditation report possible by Western Association of Schools and Colleges. The high school, which is only in its sixth year, has already sent students off to highly esteemed Universities such as Eastman School of Music, USC School of Architecture, and more.

At the Crystal Cathedral Academy and High School, positive values are developed, creativity is valued, friendships are formed, love is alive, and Jesus Christ is Lord. For more information, go to crystalcathedral.org/academy, or call 714-971-4158.

See pg. 4, "The Day I Met the Governor."

PARENTS

FAMILY PRIORITIES: A BALANCING ACT

Dear Dr. Sheila,

We have three small children and have been diligent in making sure that they get a good academic foundation, are involved in sports to ensure that they are athletically fit, and participate in some sort of performing arts, to make sure they are well balanced. But recently we realized we have been negligent in making sure that they know the Bible and are grounded spiritually. Where do we begin?

-Turning a New Leaf

Dear New Leaf,

It warms my heart to hear that you and your husband are committed to teaching your children the most important lessons in life! If we teach our children to read and write, to throw a baseball, and sing in the choir, but they are lost spiritually, then we have withheld from them the meaning and joy that comes from the spiritual fulfillment of having a loving relationship with God.

The good news is that it is remarkably simple! We teach our parents at the Crystal Cathedral Family Ministries these four simple steps to teaching children about God:

1. Read/discuss scripture as a family at least three times a week. This worked best for my family at mealtime. We kept a copy of the Beginner's Bible (for preschool) and the Adventure's Bible (for elementary) on the family table. We also have recommended readings and discussion starters available as Power Tools on our website, kidpowerplant.org.
2. Pray together as a family at least once a day.
3. Play together as a family at least once a week.
4. Serve together as a family at least once a year.

I hope this helps, and I applaud you for desiring an eternal legacy of faith for your children!

other side of the globe" (in Japan with his wife attending a conference). However, what struck the governor most, when watching news coverage on cable TV as he quickly made his way back to the U.S., was "the light of hope in the Virginia Tech community."

Having once served as a missionary in the poverty-ridden Honduras, Kaine said, "People taught me there how to deal with tragedy." It confirmed the conviction that was already deeply held by Kaine, that "God sent Jesus to earth so he could draw closer to us to understand human suffering." And to teach us that "from the worst situation can come hope. It's universal."

When Dr. Schuller asked the governor to share from his heart about what the last week had shown him, Kaine replied, "The week has reminded me of kind of a trinity of lessons:

"First is the immense preciousness of life. As you read the stories of the students and faculty members who were killed, you know every story is so powerful and beautiful, and...what was cut short in terms of what these folks could have done in the world... But the people who sit next to us in the pew, or the people we work with, or the people we go to school with - we're all amazing people.

"The second thing that was very powerful to me, this week, is the universality of human grief. The students and faculty members who were killed, some were from Virginia, some were from other states, many were from overseas. They spoke different native languages, they had different religions, they came from different cultures, they were very, very different in many ways... We're all mortal, we all experience grief and loss, and it cuts across all boundaries of class and country and color... We truly are all God's creation and are unified.

"And, the universality of hope. And what a hard mystery it is that somehow it appears even in the most devastating and darkest circumstances, and yet we know that to be the case from the very story of the crucifixion and resurrection, that from the worst and most humiliating and violent incident, can come the most powerful moment of enlightenment and understanding and community."

announce the offering, introduce the soloist, and then deliver the message.

But "the still, quiet voice" was telling me something else. As I watched Evel and my father walk from the pulpit area, I stood up and approached the microphone. The congregation was now totally silent, even though they had all, only moments ago, stood up and given Evel a thunderous standing ovation for his testimony and soul-moving baptism. In a moment's time, "the still, quiet voice" was telling me, "I believe there are many others here this morning who would like to be baptized. Invite them to come forward."

So I did just that, and I picked up the baptism bowl my father had used to baptize Evel and walked down into the congregation. I noticed that Executive

"I wanted to scream to the world that I am a born-again Christian!"

"I picked you, Dr. Schuller, because I think that you have a message to give to everyone in the world and you're doing it in such a wonderful way. I wanted to scream to the world that I am a born-again Christian on the Hour of Power, and I wanted to be baptized at the Crystal Cathedral. I'm so proud of it.

"Before and after my jumps, I could feel the prayers and good wishes of the crowd as I rode around saying thank you to them. Thank you so much. Today I can feel your prayers and your good

We baptized nearly 500 people that wonderful morning - and millions more were moved to tears and to prayer, with many making the decision to accept Christ into their hearts as they, too, witnessed this modern miracle on our televised Hour of Power.

What is that "little voice" saying to you today? What will He say to you tomorrow? How will you respond?

wishes just like before when I got ready to go on my motorcycle. Your prayers have helped me make this jump successfully. I felt it.

"I have never felt such a feeling of satisfaction, of God, of prayer, and of good wishes that meant any more to me than from you wonderful people sitting in this congregation today. God bless you, and someday we will see each other again."

ing in on causes and projects that are clearly helpful to others: a few examples are Bill Bryant, actively working as a pastor; Ken Waltz, who does wood-work projects for family and friends; Don Heinlein, who will help anybody with computer challenges; and Art Gebhardt, who assists folks with home maintenance work. Ed and Dorothy McCrory switched roles; Ed is the "round-home" person and pursues his hobbies, while Dorothy re-entered the workplace doing what she loves.

Regardless of the many specific ways we can contribute, or enjoy life, there is one vital thread to be woven with special intentionality through these years. In one word, it is RELATIONSHIPS. This word defines God's mandate for us throughout our lives, but the 3rd Age is a time when it is uniquely possible and important.

Nose-to-the-grindstone days are over. Now we must notice people, give ourselves to them, and find ways to know, and be known by, others. This is true concerning our peers, those of our own age, but even more so, it calls for connecting with the younger generation. We have so much to give them! Love, appreciation, admiration, encouragement, smiles. These are easy to pass around and they nourish another's soul like nothing else. We also have ideas, wisdom, insights, experience that can be shared. Many have skills, interests, and abilities that can be passed on to grandchildren and other youth. Little builds a child up as much as praise and appreciation from older folks unrelated to them. These are gifts that should steadily flow from our lips into the hearts of those we meet.

All the while we are modeling something few of us had much of, namely how to be happy, healthy, and enjoyable in the days often regarded as elderly. The young need to see us living radiantly. In the past, few lived into their late seventies and eighties. There were no patterns or styles for being an older person, they were so exceptional. Today is different and we are leading the way, setting the standards, creating images of how to be in the third quarter of life. It is an exciting challenge God has given us. It is one in which we all can be active.

Prestigious Legacy Award Recognition

By Hannah R. Dean, CCM Communications Student Intern

In recognition of Dr. Robert H. Schuller's lifetime contribution to serving visitors in Orange County, our founding pastor was presented with the prestigious Legacy Award during the Orange County Tourism Council's Service Excellence Awards on April 10, 2007.

Dr. Schuller, the first pastor to receive the award, was so honored for the unique role he has played in the development of Orange County since 1955 when he founded the world's first walk-in/drive-in church, and later built the spectacular Crystal Cathedral, a popular tourist attraction in its own right, which was a bold and creative move that helped put Orange County on the map.

During his acceptance speech, Dr. Schuller shared that he feels blessed to live in the best county with the best people in the world, Orange County.

Your Positive "Power" Team Up North

By Rita Neal, Director, Crystal Cathedral Ministries, Canada

Our ministry in Canada is small in size, but very big in our desire to share the Gospel of Christ while honoring and nurturing our Canadian donors and supporters. We have a staff of four: Rita, Irene, Yvonne, and Henk. Only Yvonne works full time. Rita and Irene work four days a week, and Henk is on call to handle shipping, usually one day a week.

Last year, we received 52,700 letters and e-mails, and mailed out 15,000 packages from our office. We also air courier labels once a week to the Crystal Cathedral Service Center in Garden Grove, from which small items are mailed.

Canadian viewers receive the same mailings and see the same program as do the U.S. viewers. This ministry in Canada began 29 years ago, and has been a self-supporting international ministry for about 20 years. We are very proud of the fact that every year we are able to assist various countries in paying their television costs, helping people in other countries to watch the Hour of Power.

However, our main focus is to respect and honor the Canadians who faithfully donate to our ministry so we may stay on television. We pray regularly for those Canadian viewers who have specific needs, and then mail to them a card let-

Dr. Schuller Appears in OCMA Video Installation

Paradise, a large-scale video installation by Turkish artist Kutlug Ataman, is now appearing at the Orange County Museum of Art (OCMA) through June 3. Filmed primarily in Orange County, the work focuses on the notion of "paradise" often associated with this region.

Ataman's installation includes the words of typical and atypical Californians, each of whom plays a role in the construction of paradise. Filmed in a wide-screen format suggestive of Hollywood films, the piece combines video interviews of people including our own Dr. Robert H. Schuller; as well as twelve-year-old Maya Berko, who wants to be a star; retired Emmy Award-winning producer Robert Henry; star chef James Boyce of the famed Montage Resort and Spa in Laguna Beach; surfer and Quiksilver executive Steve Jones; and more. Altogether, the 24 personalities create a complex, multi-layered portrait of the region.

The Orange County Museum of Art in Newport Beach is located at 850 San Clemente Drive. For more information, call 949-759-1122 or visit www.ocma.net.

100% New Hope: Art & Carol Womer

Every Sunday morning, two veterans of life consistently show up to receive the phone calls of troubled souls. Life has qualified them, partially through pain, to be God's gifts to hurting people. They are reliable cornerstones for our weekend New Hope ministry.

Both have known intense heartache - broken marriages, and broken bodies. Carol suffered a near-death brain hemorrhage while teaching a high school class. Art, unconscious ten days, was given "last rites" after a plane crash as a U. S. Navy man. He still lives a life wracked with pain. They have turned their "hurts into halos" as they share with the distressed from their own deep wells of spiritual growth, learned in life's roughest classroom.

Carol and Art met playing bridge at Marina High School during lunch hour. They didn't talk. Time was too short. This was thirty minutes for bridge, nothing else. However, eventually they danced at the senior prom - they were chaperones, not students. The spark was lit.

Dr. Art, originally from New Brighton, PA, is a highly honored economics teacher with a PhD. In 1984, he received the prestigious Freedoms Foundation Award for Excellence in Education. His unique classroom activity was later captured and made into a book and a Hollywood movie: "The Day the Senior Class got Married." This work became an Emmy-award-winning TV special called "School Break Special."

Art was not planning to be a schoolteacher when young. Ministry was his goal until he saw the "pre-ministry" group at Grove City College. He didn't like their looks. They didn't look dynamic and strong. Since he couldn't identify with them, he turned toward engineering. The U.S. Navy stint interrupted that, then the plane crash, reawakened the ministry call. Art even served successfully as a student pastor in a small chapel of down-and-out poor folks. But teaching economics was the more fitting assignment and his many honors prove this.

Carol was an Illinois farm girl, raised by her grandparents after her single mom saw them to be a better option for Carol's well-being. (Much later, Carol and her mom became the best of friends). The grandparents made sure this bright, talented young person found all she needed to grow up well. She was active in music in high school and the salutatorian of her graduating class. She was an outstanding student at Eastern Illinois University where she majored in the biological sciences, aiming to be a teacher.

Carol headed for Southern California, after she graduated, in response to vigorous recruitment efforts by the California public schools. Marina High School in Huntington Beach won her, and a new life began. It has included active Christian service as a Ministering Elder and certification in our Lay Ministry training course.

Art is clearly gratified by his life as a "church man," as well as teacher. He was a leader and a ruling elder at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church where he took a leading role in developing their Men's Ministry. He then followed Carol to the Crystal Cathedral, impressed with her L.M.T.C. (Lay Ministry Training Credential) diploma completed in 1981. Carol then invited him to join her on the New Hope Team. Now they still come together answering the phones on a key shift with many urgent calls, faithfully for 25 years.

Art is author of a deep and inspiring book, Bound to Be Free. He is a thoughtful Christian and a zealous Bible student, proud of active leadership in our Men's Ministry.

Carol and Art are models of high-level commitment. Here are two outstanding professional teachers who keep on giving behind the scenes. Not many see them in their small New Hope phone booths, but scores have been helped and healed by their caring presence every Sunday morning.

Changing role of the pastor's wife: An interview with Donna Schuller

Sometimes it takes possibility thinking

By Ronald E. Keener, Church Executive magazine

CATHEDRAL

Q. Donna, it's been a year since the installation of you and Robert to this ministry. How did that day go?

A. My husband actually wrote me into the liturgy because he said it was very important that I stand up there with him. Wesley Granberg-Michaelson, the general secretary of our denomination, first read the vows to my husband. Then he...asked me and if I accepted the role and responsibility as Robert's wife to lead this church into the future. That was a first, as far as we know, in tradition. Although it's no secret that my mother-in-law absolutely started this church with my father-in-law 52 years ago, and they have worked side-by-side.

Q. Did your new role change anything in the way you were perceived or experienced by the congregation?

A. People would always question, well what does Donna do; who is she? For several years, they thought I would take over the production role that Arvella had. She produced the Hour of Power. And I had to say, no, no, no, those are not my God-given gifts. Unfortunately, I'm not a beautiful musician like my mother-in-law. So when people used to question me, I felt a little bit insecure about how I answered that.

From the installation on, I don't think people question anymore because they saw me as a partner with my husband and, as such, I think most people, at least our church members realize that includes a vast number of responsibilities in the local church and with the international ministries as well.

Q. How do you and Robert complement each other?

A. I'm the one who wears my emotions on my sleeve pretty much. He's the constant. I'm an extrovert; he's not an introvert but he...likes to chew on information and think about it and ponder it. He's very strategic in his thinking. I'm more, "OK, let's do it now."

Q. How do you describe the communication traits between you and Robert?

A. My husband says, "If it's in her head, it comes out of her mouth." [Laughter.] It has a lot to do with my personality. But I've learned to weigh my words and to think a lot more before I speak now. I think I've become a fairly good listener. My husband has always been very open to me voicing my concerns and opinions, even if he's been gone all day. Robert's always validated me.

Q. Just who are you as a person? Who is the authentic, transparent Donna Schuller?

A. I'm extremely extroverted, I like being out front with people, I love shaking people's hands, I love talking to people, I love looking into people's eyes at the end of the service and asking what they're all about and getting the feedback. I get a lot of energy from that. That's just the way God made me.

I would say I am a counselor; I also like to do some teaching. I love public speaking, but I prefer it in a setting where...people can interrupt and I can interact. I think what's been said about me is that I'm pretty transparent... I don't mind answering questions about my personal life, about my past, about my husband or about my kids.

Q. Do you have a support system around you for encouragement?

A. I have a very good support group right now. I (also) had a group of women at our church when Robert was pastoring at Rancho Capistrano. I started a Bible study for pre-school moms because I was really stressed out. I knew I needed some help and I looked around and I figured other moms did as well. So it started as pre-school moms, graduated into moms, and I think we met for 17 years. But out of that group of 15 to 20, I have always had a handful of...trusting prayer partners.

Q. You're outgoing and a positive person?

A. I am and I think that for most of my life, I've been a positive person. I will say I definitely didn't have the self-esteem I've had since coming back to church in my late 20s and having a personal relationship with Jesus Christ, and then, coming a step further, marrying into this family.

Possibility living is just looking at the person that God created me to be, not comparing myself to others, looking at all the possibilities out there, looking at the good side of situations.

I know...that all things work together for good to those who love God. And even when I am in the midst of a painful situation, I know that there is a lesson to be learned. I think that's what a positive ministry instills in people.

Yes, there's a lot of tragedy and there's a lot of sadness, but...don't get stuck in it. Just think about all the great stuff that is happening and what can happen through people developing a positive, great relationship with Jesus.
